

Sports:

Women's cross country takes conference title

page 8

INSIDE THIS ISSUE

WPR "Classical" grouping is insulting

page 2

The public is fed up with politicians

by Dave Barry

page 6

THE LAWRENTIAN

Vol. CVIII, No. 7

LAWRENCE UNIVERSITY'S STUDENT NEWSPAPER

Friday Nov. 9, 1990

Renamed committee to handle parking lottery

By Gordon A. Martinez

The newly renamed Residential Life Committee, formerly the Housing Committee, has been given the added responsibility of conducting the parking lottery for student parking spots.

The change in the by-laws came in wake of the university's takeover of responsibility for parking from the Lawrence University Community Council.

At Monday's meeting, Mike Olson, Assistant Dean of Students for Residential Life, said that he didn't think the committee should have to conduct both the housing and parking lotteries.

"Consider fall term that there is no housing committee. There are some holdovers, but its hard to rally people to do the lottery."

"Third term, we're getting into the midst of the housing lottery and to have another burden is problematic."

Olson suggested that responsibility for the parking lottery fall on another committee suggesting the Welfare Committee with

Olson serving as advisor for the lottery.

Faculty representative Michael LaMarca said, "I favor the motion because the Residential Life Committee has an institutional memory it can draw from."

"I think its a logical move and once Mr. Olson becomes more familiar with the responsibilities, he won't find it so onerous."

With discussion stopped, the council voted to add the responsibility of the parking lottery to the Residential Life Committee.

In other business:
- Treasurer Brian Huglen

See LUCC Page 4

Canto Nuevo

Based out of Oaxaca, Mexico, the music group Canto Nuevo played three shows on their first trip to the United States. Professor Hans Ternes helped get the group to perform here.

A look at radio

Dick Knapinski Knapinski to promote programming improvement

By Gordon A. Martinez

Dick Knapinski has experience in radio who wants to share that knowledge with those students who want to get involved in WLFM.

Knapinski, whose job at WLFM is to host from 7 to 8 p.m. on weekdays, "Conversations with Dick Knapinski," worked for nine years at WNBI in Park Falls where he was program director and sports director.

The last two years, Knapinski was news and sports director at WMGU in Stevens Point.

When not working for WLFM, he is a sports correspondent with the Post-Crescent.

Knapinski's reaction to the WLFM controversy was that students didn't understand more than disapprove of the move.

"Most of the students didn't know what was going on. The hours are less, but a lot are still there."

"If any student wants to be involved, they can."

Knapinski wants to change the expectations of what having a show on WLFM is all about.

"The rules are different. I'm going to make everyone accountable for their program. Accountable for what's done on the show."

"Radio is not a jukebox. If someone wants to do a music show and if they know the background of the music, if they talk about the artists and they have a show that's as good as it

See Knapinski, Page 5

WPR tries to clear up musical classification

By Chris Mueller

A memo released by Jack Mitchell, director of programming at Wisconsin Public Radio, attempted to clear up the controversy over Greg Schnirring's provocative "Soundtrack of Our Lives Concept."

See WPR, Page 8

Trivia contest given go ahead for January '91

By Mike Spofford

After WLFM was taken over by Wisconsin Public Radio, many questions arose as to what kinds of student radio programs would be done away with. One of those in question was the annual Midwest

See TRIVIA, Page 5

Recycling program to begin with plain paper winter term

By Kerri Hurlebaus

In 1995, recycling laws will go into affect for Wisconsin making the recycling of glass, paper and aluminum products mandatory.

Lawrence, however, is starting now in response to student concerns for a campus wide recycling program.

Phase one, taking effect next term, allows for the recycling of ordinary office paper with each additional phase introducing a new product.

Chris Naumann, a student member of the recycling task force which submitted a report to President Richard Warch about a month ago, said, "This way, everyone will be used to recycling products by the time the state laws go into effect and we'll be ahead of the game."

The task force, which includes both student and faculty members, was established last year to work toward getting the program started.

The work for the program will be divided between students and Physical Plant.

Students, in conjunction with Crane House and Greenfire, will collect paper, glass and aluminum products on a volunteer basis.

"But our manpower is low," said Libby Kurten, a volunteer from the Crane House.

In the beginning, the proceeds from the recycled goods will cover the start-up costs. Once those are covered, the money will go toward the purchase of permanent recycling bins.

The report for a university recycling program is awaiting reaction from President Warch.

"There's no reason why it shouldn't be finalized," said Naumann.

"If President Warch says it goes, it goes."

According to Naumann, there are some final details to be worked out.

From The Editor's Desk

A look at the end of this term's paper run

Things are tough for everyone when it comes to student budget funds and the newspaper is no exception. This is the final issue of the term for The Lawrentian due to budget considerations and other factors. Though cutting an issue is not the most desirable way to save money, there aren't many other choices.

This should signal to everyone. Even an organization like The Lawrentian, which works hard for its advertising revenue, cannot make it through an entire run indicates that maybe more funding should be forthcoming to student organizations.

It is definitely not LUCC's fault. They lobbied hard last fall for more money for student groups. The $150,000 in requests from student groups last spring was bare bones operating expenses. Yet, only $77,500 comes down the pipe.

It can be repeated, things are tough all over, but if students are motivated enough to do an activity, they should be funded as well as possible.

Maybe the university's discretionary budget isn't that large and student groups don't receive as high a consideration as other items. That, however shouldn't be the case.

Student organizations provide an outlet for students outside of the classroom. They are just as essential to a student's experience as what is done in the classroom. Therefore, they should be given as high a consideration as other discretionary budget expenses.

Otherwise, Lawrence's aim of producing well-rounded students won't be fulfilled. Why? Because there is more to life than studying in the library or practicing in the practice room. Where else, if not student organizations, will students learn leadership and other skills necessary for that big jump into the "real world." They are as important as any university or conservatory class and should be funded as such.

Now, a review of the newspaper's run this term. It may not have always been pretty or award-winning, but this fall's run of The Lawrentian was, to say the least, interesting.

In a first go at running this newspaper, a young editor sees the big picture clearly.

As one who has mostly done writing and with some previous editing experience, this editor had to face some selfish people who wanted to use the newspaper for their own aims without showing regard for good journalism or the philosophy of a college newspaper, people who are convinced the press should stay out of everyone's lives, and those who wanted only the positive without regard for the truth.

But only a few. I thank those that I have dealt with for their understanding and patience who were willing to sit down with members of the staff and let them do what they are asked to do: Tell the story as accurately and as completely as possible.

Back to you Tom.

- Gordon A. Martinez

THE LAWRENTIAN

The Lawrentian, USPS 306-680, is published weekly, twenty-five times a year while classes are in session and is distributed free of charge to students, faculty, and staff on the Lawrence University campus. Subscription is $16 a year. Second class postage paid at Appleton, Wisconsin. POSTMASTER: send address changes to The Lawrentian, PO Box 599, Appleton, WI 54912.

Editorial policy is determined by the editor. Any opinions which appear unsigned are those of the editor, not necessarily of The Lawrentian's staff.

Letters to the editor are welcome and encouraged. No letter can be printed unless it is less than 350 words and legibly signed by the author. Names may be held upon request. The editor reserves the right to edit for style and space. Letters must be submitted by 5 p.m. Wednesdays to the Information desk or mailed to the above address.

Editor.....Gordon Martinez
Assistant Editor.....Kristin Mekeel
Entertainment Editor.....Chris Mueller
Photo Editor.....Dan Marshall
Production Editor.....Laura Wake
Features Editor.....Dave Kueter
Advertising Manager.....Jonathan Ferguson
Business Manager.....Carol Harper
Circulation Manager.....Martin Buerger
Sports Editor.....Fred Andersen
Typesetters.....Sarah Ritter and Bonnie Ward
Photo staff.....Nate Hagee

IT'S DINNER UNDER THE STARS EVERY NIGHT WHEN YOU'RE

HOMELESS!

GET ALL THE FACTS

CHECK OUT THESE BENEFITS TODAY:

FREE RENT

NO BORING JOB

ADVENTURE GALORE

SANITY OPTIONAL

NO MORE SHAVING

EXCITING NEW BEVERAGES

NO EXPERIENCE NECESSARY

Do you have what it takes to become homeless?

HEAD
ARMS
LEGS

HOMELESSNESS IS PATRIOTIC!

When you "go homeless", you:

- FREE UP VALUABLE REAL ESTATE & JOBS!
- MAKE THE MIDDLE CLASS FEEL THAT THEY'RE BETTER OFF THAN YOU!
- DISAPPEAR FROM THE WORK FORCE - AND REDUCE UNEMPLOYMENT!
- ELIMINATE OVERPOPULATION BY CENSUS OVERSIGHT!

JOIN AMERICA'S FASTEST GROWING DEMOGRAPHIC GROUP!

CLIP 'N' SEND TO LANDLORD, EMPLOYER & PARENTS:

Date: _____

Dear Sir or Madam:

I hereby withdraw from life, you repulsive scum.

Your tenant/minion/etc.,

The City of New York

NYC Department of Sanitation
Bureau of Waste Disposal
137 Centre Street, Rm 136
New York, NY 10013
Equal Opportunity Employer

Letters to the Editor/Open Forum

Why LU didn't make "The List"

To the Editor:

TOP TEN REASONS LAWRENCE DIDN'T MAKE THE U.S. NEWS AND WORLD REPORT TOP TEN SMALL LIBERAL ARTS COLLEGES LIST:

10) We don't have a crew team, only a crew club. (It's the image thing, you know.)

9) They mistook townies for Lawrentians.
8) We did not meet the quota for suntanned, scantily-clad babes with California accents.
7) Somebody told them, "Water my log!"
6) They felt our use of the phrase "The Nipple of Knowledge" was less than respectful.
5) They thought Lawrence was being too commercial by naming one hall after a toilet manufacturer and another after a major TV news anchor.
4) The school paper had too many typos.

3) 70% of all Lawrence graduates are working at a mall near you.
2) The most famous person to come out of Lawrence was Jeffery Jones ... And who the hell is he anyway?
1) They said our President was, quote, "Goofy Looking". (But hey, relax! ... It's nothing that a couple thousand dollars wouldn't have solved.)

Respectfully Yours,

- The Mystic Order of Arachnid Vigilance

Classical can't be classified

By Chris Mueller

In an article in the Friday, October 26, 1990 issue of the Wisconsin State Journal, columnist Pat Simms discussed a new plan by Wisconsin Public Radio associate director Greg Schnirring to make classical music, as Simms put it, "user-friendly."

Not only does Schnirring want to eradicate the announcing of words, phrases, and texts not in English and the use of composers' first names, but he also wants to divide classical music into four categories: upbeat, relaxing, disturbing, and depressing.

According to Schnirring, only the upbeat and relaxing pieces would be played which would mean that many pieces would be played without all their movements.

Schnirring felt that disturbing or depressing music has no place in the daily workday routine calling this the "The Soundtrack of Our Lives Concept."

Not only does this proposal insult the listeners of WPR by assuming their musical illiteracy, but it also insults the music itself by assuming that pieces are not the sum of their parts, but rather collections of unrelated movements of varying degrees of acceptability to the listener.

This proposal also insults musicians by asserting that the music they play is merely a backdrop against which the important activities of the day are set.

These suppositions are false, and indeed heresy to all music-lovers. Classical music is by its very nature complex, and by attempting to dilute or detoxify it for the sake of those who merely want background music for their daily activities is a shame and a crime.

Classical pieces are meant as complete works, to be played in their entirety, and certainly the composers' full names may be pronounced with titles in their correct languages!

The new memo which WPR has released does precious little to clear up matters.

It states that WPR is considering a centrally controlled system and that WPR's approach needs to be rethought, but it gives no reasons for these things. Have listeners been complaining about the general format? Why need they fix what works well? "The alternative ... is to keep the present system but to develop clearer policies on what is expected."

What is expected of whom? The programmer(s)? The announcers? I fail to understand what necessitates the problem over which they are ruminating. See CLASSIFICATION, Page 5

Laing reports from Nicaragua

By Christopher J. Laing

(Editor's Note: The following is an excerpt of Laing's newsletter published in Nicaragua.)

It is clear that all of this appears to us to be insane. But what is not insane these days in Nicaragua? What has happened economically has turned the country into an insane asylum, where upon getting up in the morning we don't know if we should cry, laugh, run wildly, or go out into the street and have a shoot-out with the first guy that gives us a bad look.

Just because Nicaragua has been given "fledgling democracy" status and has disappeared from the spotlight doesn't mean that things are better for Nicaraguans these days, as noted in the above excerpt from an editorial.

The runaway inflation, with scheduled devaluations every Monday; the existence of two national currencies, three with the US dollar; the politics of revenge and favoritism; the abominable conditions of hospitals and health centers; and the official blessing of the Catholic Church hierarchy on the new government all combine to create a desperate situation, one which leaves many Nicaraguans asking themselves, "Why did I vote for UNO?"

THE ELECTIONS

On Feb. 21, the Sandinista Front for National Liberation (FSLN) closed its national campaign with a massive gathering on the Plaza of the Revolution, hoping to secure the positions of incumbent candidates Daniel Ortega and Sergio Ramirez as president and vice-president. The crowd, nearing a half million people, seemed to be a sure indication of the only logical election result: a Sandinista victory. All of the major polls had been signalling a FSLN victory and as you probably know this writer had given UNO (the alliance of opposition political parties headed by Violeta Chamorro) the following chance of victory:

impossible!

Elections were held 25 Feb. with literally thousands of international observers and tons of "free and fair" publicity generated by solidarity groups throughout the world. Finally the US will have to accept a Sandinista government, thought most of us. Even the White House was reportedly considering a change in policy if the FSLN were to win. It is hard to know who was more surprised as the results trickled in: Dona Violeta, the housewife-widow-newspaper owner turned candidate, or Daniel, the student-guerrilla fighter turned politician.

Apparently, many of those at the rally had hoped to hear something they didn't hear. Many analysts agree that if Daniel would have said, "The draft is over," he would have won the election. But surely Daniel, looking out over a sea of support, felt that such an announcement was unnecessary at precisely that moment. But it was. It's logical that with the elimination of the Contras the draft could be ended, but the Contras still had not been demobilized by election day.

In regional peace talks Daniel had agreed to move the elections forward by a few months in exchange for having the Contras demobilized and the war brought to an end. (Note that the elections themselves were not negotiated, only the date was changed.) According to journalist Tony Avirgan (Mesoamerica, March 1990):

When the Dec '89 date for demobilizing the Contras came and passed with the insurgents still armed and entrenched in Honduras, the other Central American presidents started making excuses. That was not what Ortega had agreed to. The Sandinistas objected, but no one backed them up. The deal had been broken. But the elections were scheduled and the Sandinistas had no choice but to go through with them. Violeta Chamorro promised to end the war. Her relationship with the Contras and the US made that promise feasible. Daniel Ortega promised to end the war. But the Contras were still armed and pledging to fight on. Ortega's promise was difficult to believe. War weary Nicaraguans voted for peace.

C.J. Laing, a 1987 graduate, publishes a regular newsletter.

Classification...

Continued from pg. 2 and indeed, what the problem itself is.

"Be assured that this positive process will go forward and from it will emerge a music policy that implements the mission of Wisconsin Public Radio."

They fail to define their mission as well. Perhaps their mission is to clear up invisible problems. This response seems to be an exercise in ambiguity. At least the quotes from the draft were clear.

The response of Lawrentians to this proposal has been swift and negative.

Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia and Sigma Alpha Iota, the two professional music fraternities on campus, have put petitions which protest this latest blow to the integrity of the arts up onto the conservatory student message board, and over 60 people have signed their names in agreement with this protest, which will soon be sent to WPR management.

Anyone who feels strongly about this issue is urged to at least sign a petition, and write a letter to WPR giving them your opinion of this latest tripe.

THE LAWRENTIAN TOP TEN

by Ager, Pettingell, and Wiggins

TOP TEN FUNKY NECESSITIES FOR COLLEGE LIFE

10. Gideon's Bible
9. pirhanas
8. "Simpsons" boxers
7. at least 12 hours of "The Muppet Show" on videotape
6. the Subway nose
5. complete stere-o-ponic Frank Zappa collection
4. a dug-out canoe to go up the Fox
3. hylozoic directions
2. absinthe and a dance with Rimbaud's polar bear
1. anatomical knowledge and a partridge in a pear tree

ARCHIVES IN HELL® by Andre Robbins

The best hamburgers and double cheese burgers are at

Butch's Pizza
1513 E. Cass St.
731-1399

FREE DELIVERY with any $5 minimum order

Special through November 30
Double cheese double burger and a heap of fries for $3.25

We also make the best PIZZA in town.
TRY IT!

Call 731-1399 For Delivery
The Quonset Hut On Cass St.

From The Editor's Desk

A look at the end of this term's paper run

Things are tough for everyone when it comes to student budget funds and the newspaper is no exception.

This is the final issue of the term for The Lawrentian, due to budget considerations and other factors. Though cutting an issue is not the most desirable way to save money, there aren't many other choices.

This should signal to everyone. Even an organization like The Lawrentian, which works hard for its advertising revenue, cannot make it through an entire run indicates that maybe more funding should be forthcoming to student organizations.

It is definitely not LUCC's fault. They lobbied hard last fall for more money for student groups. The $150,000 in requests from student groups last spring was bare bones operating expenses. Yet, only $77,500 comes down the pipe.

It can be repeated, things are tough all over, but if students are motivated enough to do an activity, they should be funded as well as possible.

Maybe the university's discretionary budget isn't that large and student groups don't receive as high a consideration as other items. That, however shouldn't be the case.

Student organizations provide an outlet for students outside of the classroom. They are just as essential to a student's experience as what is done in the classroom. Therefore, they should be given as high a consideration as other discretionary budget expenses.

Otherwise, Lawrence's aim of producing well-rounded students won't be fulfilled. Why? Because there is more to life than studying in the library or practicing in the practice room.

Where else, if not student organizations, will students learn leadership and other skills necessary for that big jump into the "real world." They are as important as any university or conservatory class and should be funded as such.

Now, a review of the newspaper's run this term.

It may not have always been pretty or award-winning, but this fall's run of The Lawrentian was, to say the least, interesting.

In a first go at running this newspaper, a young editor sees the big picture clearly.

As one who has mostly done writing and with some previous editing experience, this editor had to face some selfish people who wanted to use the newspaper for their own aims without showing regard for good journalism or the philosophy of a college newspaper, people who are convinced the press should stay out of everyone's lives, and those who wanted only the positive without regard for the truth.

But only a few. I thank those that I have dealt with for their understanding and patience who were willing to sit down with members of the staff and let them do what they are asked to do: Tell the story as accurately and as completely as possible.

Back to you Tom.

- Gordon A. Martinez

THE LAWRENTIAN

The Lawrentian, USPS 306-680, is published weekly, twenty-five times a year while classes are in session and is distributed free of charge to students, faculty, and staff on the Lawrence University campus. Subscription is $16 a year. Second class postage paid at Appleton, Wisconsin. POSTMASTER: send address changes to The Lawrentian, PO Box 599, Appleton, WI 54912.

Editorial policy is determined by the editor. Any opinions which appear unsigned are those of the editor, not necessarily of the Lawrentian's staff.

Letters to the editor are welcome and encouraged. No letter can be printed unless it is less than 350 words and legibly signed by the author. Names may be held upon request. The editor reserves the right to edit for style and space. Letters must be submitted by 5 p.m. Wednesdays to the Information desk or mailed to the above address.

Editor.....Gordon Martinez
Assistant Editor.....Kristin Mekeel
Entertainment Editor.....Chris Mueller
Photo Editor.....Dan Marshall
Production Editor.....Laura Wake
Features Editor.....Dave Kueter
Advertising Manager.....Jonathan Ferguson
Business Manager.....Carol Harper
Circulation Manager.....Martin Buerger
Sports Editor.....Fred Andersen
Typesetters.....Sarah Ritter and Bonnie Ward
Photo staff.....Nate Hagee

IT'S DINNER UNDER THE STARS EVERY NIGHT WHEN YOU'RE HOMELESS! GET ALL THE FACTS

CHECK OUT THESE BENEFITS TODAY:

- FREE RENT
- NO BORING JOB
- ADVENTURE GALORE
- SANITY OPTIONAL
- NO MORE SHAVING
- EXCITING NEW BEVERAGES
- NO EXPERIENCE NECESSARY

Do you have what it takes to become homeless?

HOMELESSNESS IS PATRIOTIC!

When you "go homeless," you:

- * FREE UP VALUABLE REAL ESTATE & JOBS!
- * MAKE THE MIDDLE CLASS FEEL THAT THEY'RE BETTER OFF THAN YOU!
- * DISAPPEAR FROM THE WORK FORCE - AND REDUCE UNEMPLOYMENT!
- * ELIMINATE OVERPOPULATION BY CENSUS OVERSIGHT!

CLIP 'N' SEND TO LANDLORD, EMPLOYER & PARENTS:

Date: _____

Dear Sir or Madam:

I hereby withdraw from life, you repulsive scum.

Your tenant/minion/etc.,

NYC Department of Sanitation
Bureau of Waste Disposal
137 Centre Street, 2nd Fl.
New York, NY 10013

JOIN AMERICA'S FASTEST GROWING DEMOGRAPHIC GROUP!

The City of New York

Letters to the Editor/Open Forum

Why LU didn't make "The List"

To the Editor:

TOP TEN REASONS LAWRENCE DIDN'T MAKE THE U.S. NEWS AND WORLD REPORT TOP TEN SMALL LIBERAL ARTS COLLEGES LIST:

- 1) We don't have a crew team, only a crew club. (It's the image thing, you know.)
- 2) They mistook townies for Lawrentians.
- 3) We did not meet the quota for suntanned, scantily-clad babes with California accents.
- 4) Somebody told them, "Water may log!"
- 5) They felt our use of the phrase "The Nipple of Knowledge" was less than respectful.
- 6) They thought Lawrence was being too commercial by naming one hall after a toilet manufacturer and another after a major TV news anchor.
- 7) The school paper had too many typos.
- 8) 70% of all Lawrence graduates are working at a mall near you.
- 9) The most famous person to come out of Lawrence was Jeffery Jones ... And who the hell is he anyway?!
- 10) They said our President was, quote, "Goofy Looking". (But hey, relax! ... It's nothing that a couple thousand dollars wouldn't have solved.)

Respectfully Yours,

- The Mystic Order of Arachnid Vigilance

Classical can't be classified

By Chris Mueller

In an article in the Friday, October 26, 1990 issue of the Wisconsin State Journal, columnist Pat Simms discussed a new plan by Wisconsin Public Radio associate director Greg Schnirring to make classical music, as Simms put it, "user-friendly."

Not only does Schnirring want to eradicate the announcing of words, phrases, and texts not in English and the use of composers' first names, but he also wants to divide classical music into four categories: upbeat, relaxing, disturbing, and depressing.

According to Schnirring, only the upbeat and relaxing pieces would be played which would mean that many pieces would be played without all their movements.

Schnirring felt that disturbing or depressing music has no place in the daily workday routine calling this the "The Soundtrack of Our Lives Concept."

Not only does this proposal insult the listeners of WPR by assuming their musical illiteracy, but it also insults the music itself by assuming that pieces are not the sum of their parts, but rather collections of unrelated movements of varying degrees of acceptability to the listener.

This proposal also insults musicians by asserting that the music they play is merely a backdrop against which the important activities of the day are set.

These suppositions are false, and indeed heresy to all music-lovers. Classical music is by its very nature complex, and by attempting to dilute or detoxify it for the sake of those who merely want background music for their daily activities is a shame and a crime.

Classical pieces are meant as complete works, to be played in their entirety, and certainly the composers' full names may be pronounced with titles in their correct languages!

The new memo which WPR has released does precious little to clear up matters.

It states that WPR is considering a centrally controlled system and that WPR's approach needs to be rethought, but it gives no reasons for these things. Have listeners been complaining about the general format? Why need they fix what works well? "The alternative ... is to keep the present system but to develop clearer policies on what is expected."

What is expected of whom? The programmer(s)? The announcer(s)? I fail to understand what necessitates the problem over which they are ruminating. See CLASSIFICATION, Page 5

Laing reports from Nicaragua

By Christopher J. Laing

(Editor's Note: The following is an excerpt of Laing's newsletter published in Nicaragua.)

It is clear that all of this appears to us to be insane. But what is not insane these days in Nicaragua? What has happened economically has turned the country into an insane asylum, where upon getting up in the morning we don't know if we should cry, laugh, run wildly, or go out into the street and have a shoot-out with the first guy that gives us a bad look.

Just because Nicaragua has been given "fledgling democracy" status and has disappeared from the spotlight doesn't mean that things are better for Nicaraguans these days, as noted in the above excerpt from an editorial.

The runaway inflation, with scheduled devaluations every Monday; the existence of two national currencies, three with the US dollar; the politics of revenge and favoritism; the abominable conditions of hospitals and health centers; and the official blessing of the Catholic Church hierarchy on the new government all combine to create a desperate situation, one which leaves many Nicaraguans asking themselves, "Why did I vote for UNO?"

THE ELECTIONS

On Feb. 21, the Sandinista Front for National Liberation (FSLN) closed its national campaign with a massive gathering on the Plaza of the Revolution, hoping to secure the positions of incumbent candidates Daniel Ortega and Sergio Ramirez as president and vice-president. The crowd, nearing a half million people, seemed to be a sure indication of the only logical election result: a Sandinista victory. All of the major polls had been signalling a FSLN victory and as you probably know this writer had given UNO (the alliance of opposition political parties headed by Violeta Chamorro) the following chance of victory:

impossible!

Elections were held 25 Feb. with literally thousands of international observers and tons of "free and fair" publicity generated by solidarity groups throughout the world. Finally the US will have to accept a Sandinista government, thought most of us. Even the White House was reportedly considering a change in policy if the FSLN were to win. It is hard to know who was more surprised as the results trickled in: Dona Violeta, the housewife-widow-newspaper owner turned candidate, or Daniel, the student-guerrilla fighter turned politician.

Apparently, many of those at the rally had hoped to hear something they didn't hear. Many analysts agree that if Daniel would have said, "The draft is over," he would have won the election. But surely Daniel, looking out over a sea of support, felt that such announcement was unnecessary at precisely that moment. But it was. It's logical that with the elimination of the Contras the draft could be ended, but the Contras still had not been demobilized by election day.

In regional peace talks Daniel had agreed to move the elections forward by a few months in exchange for having the Contras demobilized and the war brought to an end. (Note that the elections themselves were not negotiated, only the date was changed.) According to journalist Tony Avirgan (Mesoamerica, March 1990):

When the Dec '89 date for demobilizing the Contras came and passed with the insurgents still armed and entrenched in Honduras, the other Central American presidents started making excuses. That was not what Ortega had agreed to. The Sandinistas objected, but no one backed them up. The deal had been broken. But the elections were scheduled and the Sandinistas had no choice but to go through with them. Violeta Chamorro promised to end the war. Her relationship with the Contras and the US made that promise feasible. Daniel Ortega promised to end the war. But the Contras were still armed and pledging to fight on. Ortega's promise was difficult to believe. War weary Nicaraguans voted for peace.

C.J. Laing, a 1987 graduate, publishes a regular newsletter.

Classification...

Continued from pg. 2 and indeed, what the problem itself is.

"Be assured that this positive process will go forward and from it will emerge a music policy that implements the mission of Wisconsin Public Radio."

They fail to define their mission as well. Perhaps their mission is to clear up invisible problems. This response seems to be an exercise in ambiguity. At least the quotes from the draft were clear.

The response of Lawrentians to this proposal has been swift and negative.

Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia and Sigma Alpha Iota, the two professional music fraternities on campus, have put petitions which protest this latest blow to the integrity of the arts up onto the conservatory student message board, and over 60 people have signed their names in agreement with this protest, which will soon be sent to WPR management.

Anyone who feels strongly about this issue is urged to at least sign a petition, and write a letter to WPR giving them your opinion of this latest tripe.

THE LAWRENTIAN TOP TEN

by Ager, Pettingell, and Wiggins

TOP TEN FUNKY NECESSITIES FOR COLLEGE LIFE

10. Gideon's Bible
9. pirhanas
8. "Simpsons" boxers
7. at least 12 hours of "The Muppet Show" on videotape
6. the Subway nose
5. complete stere-o-phonie Frank Zappa collection
4. a dug-out canoe to go up the Fox
3. hylozoic directions
2. absinthe and a dance with Rimbaud's polar bear
1. anatomical knowledge and a partridge in a pear tree

ARCHIVES IN HELL® by Andrew Robbins

The best hamburgers and double cheese burgers are at

Butch's Pizza
1513 E. Cass St.
731-1399

FREE DELIVERY with any $5 minimum order

Special through November 30
Double cheese double burger
and a heap of fries for $3.25

We also make the best PIZZA in town.

TRY IT!

Call 731-1399 For Delivery
The Quonset Hut On Cass St.

Stanley focuses on Cruzan LUCC...

By Kelly Ritland

On Tuesday, November 6, Jack Stanley, a professor of Religious Studies, lectured on the topic of Nancy Cruzan - Implications of the Supreme Court Decision during the second Main Hall Forum.

He began the presentation by showing a video of a PBS special. Which showed the family the day before the trial began.

Nancy Cruzan is a 25 year old woman who is in a persistent vegetative state.

Cruzan was throw from a car, face down in the snow. She was without breath for fifteen minutes, and it is undetermined how long she went without a pulse. The ambulance arrived and restored her heartbeat, brought her to the hospital and put her on a respirator. From there, she had a gastronomy surgically implanted into her stomach. After three years, the family decided her condition was irreversible, and to disconnect the tube.

The hospital didn't have any problems with disconnecting the tube, but wanted a court order. Initially, the Missouri State Court said it was alright for the disconnection. But the case became public, and the Missouri Attorney General, William Webster, brought it to the Supreme Court of Missouri. There it rejected the case, saying it was in the interest of the state to maintain life.

It then went to the U.S. Supreme Court, where it was said that in a state where the state says has interest to override interest in the individual, a living will is a necessity.

This space contributed as a public service.

This is where the issue of the living will is addressed. A roommate had heard Cruzan say she did not want to live if ever in the vegetation state. Therefore, a "substitutional judgment" must come into play in place of the living will Cruzan didn't have.

Legal and policy implications have arisen, along with an assortment of valid issues. The courts say they need either a living will of strong legal stature, or a durable attorney is needed to withdraw life support systems. Cruzan's attorney uses the 14th amendment as evidence supporting their side.

Continued from pg. 1 the constitution. noted that many organizations had not turned in that groups take the responsibility to do their monthly reports which were due at the first own records and not just of the month. simply give LUCC what the

Associate Dean of Students Paul Shrode asked if business office says is what Huglen could move the date they have in their account. for reporting from the first - Vice-president Sven to the tenth of every month White said the requestThe due to the difficulty of a Lawrentian for $1,200 to group pulling all its financial records together and checking it against the circulation manager with a records in the business of- stipend for advertising was rejected with the editor

Huglen said that the constitution states all reports sources of funding for the are due at the first of the typesetters and to increase month and changing it advertising to make-up for would require a change in the shortfall.

ACCEPT NO IMITATIONS

The others tend to squawk when you demand the best hardly ever

unique jewelry, clothing, and gifts imported from around the world

109 e. college ave. downtown appleton

If what happened on your inside happened on your outside, would you still smoke?

NOVEMBER 15. THE GREAT AMERICAN SMOKEOUT.

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

The Pastor and People of Emmanuel United Methodist Church invite you to take a step across College Ave. to enjoy a refreshing hour of worship 9:00 and 11:15 Sundays 740 E. College Ave.

From The Good Book c. 1970, 1972 by David Evans. Used by permission of the publisher, Price, Stern, Sloan.

"Look, Joseph! Jesus took his first step!"

fox valley Reproductive Health care center, inc.

- Owned and Operated By Women, For Women
- Women Physicians
- Birth Control Services
- Pregnancy Testing
- Counseling
- Abortion Surgery Through 15 Weeks

3800 N. Gillett Street • Appleton

(414) 731-9534

The DePaul University Professional Master of Science in Accountancy Program

1991 Liberal Arts and Sciences Graduates: a special announcement concerning careers in business specifically for Liberal Arts and Sciences students.

The School of Accountancy of DePaul University, Chicago, Illinois, a 75-year leader in innovative accounting education, offers to selected graduates of prestigious liberal arts and sciences programs the Professional Master of Science in Accountancy. This highly competitive program is offered in conjunction with the nation's leading accounting firms and is restricted to students sponsored by the participating firms.

The PMSA program begins in June 1991. Recruiting for the program is currently in progress.

The 15-month program entails:

- immediate (June 1991) employment in the Chicago office of a sponsoring accounting firm.
- an accelerated course of study in business and accounting at Chicago's DePaul University.

Successful completion of the DePaul PMSA program results in:

- A master of science in accountancy degree from the Graduate School of Business of DePaul University
- Full-time business and accounting experience with a major accounting firm
- Eligibility to sit for the C.P.A. examination in Illinois
- Broad career opportunities and advancement in professional accounting with your sponsoring firm.

Ask About Our "WINTERVIEWS" Recruiting Event December 27, 1990 in Chicago

DEPAUL UNIVERSITY

For more information on the PMSA program, contact your placement office or Mr. Terry A. Baker, Coordinator, School of Accountancy, DePaul University, 25 E. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Illinois 60604, (312) 362-8770.

Knapinski...

Continued from pg. 1
can be, then those hours are out there."

Knapinski very much likes alternative radio and would like to see it work at WLFM.

"Even though its student radio, it shouldn't fall short of what's done at a regular station."

"College radio can be very good radio."

Knapinski envisions his show as being about whatever people want it to be about.

"Maybe there's an expert around who knows about the situation in the Persian Gulf."

"It could deal with social issues, what's on at Lawrence and the community. A potpourri of things."

Knapinski sees his show as a good opportunity for students to learn about production, reporting and other facets of radio.

Knapinski also realizes the place WLFM has in the Appleton community.

"Lawrence sees this station as a public relations tool. The deans and administrators have to be cognizant of what comes out of here reflects on the college."

lege."

Knapinski's feel for the community is, "The general population thinks this is a little elitist campus with students who pay thousands of dollars to get what they want and leave the valley for bigger places."

Knapinski sees the radio station as a way of bridging that gap. But the only way it can happen is student involvement, according to Knapinski.

"I think the station could be a marvelous part of Lawrence."

Trivia...

Continued from pg. 1

Trivia Contest, but it was recently decided that the "50 hours of trivia" will be held once again this year.

Larry Dahlke, grand master of the trivia contest, explained that it has been up to the students involved with WLFM whether or not to have the contest this year.

The students were told they would have to assume the responsibilities of Larry Page, the station's former chief engineer whose position was eliminated in the WPR takeover, and they have decided to do so.

The Midwest Trivia Contest is now in its 25th year, and as Dahlke explained, "There are fun things planned for the 25th anniversary. It will be star-studded."

But he added that it remains to be seen if the contest will be run exactly the same way as before.

Glen Slaats, the WPR representative and current general manager of the station, plans to watch over the contest and see how things are run, but Dahlke is unsure if Slaats will change anything.

"As of right now, we plan to run the contest like we have in the past. It has been 'cleaned up' in recent years, and we plan to continue with the kinder and gentler form of trivia, but we won't hesitate to have fun with it," explained Dahlke.

Also, Dahlke does not anticipate the public or the students to show any less interest in the contest because of the takeover. He stated, "Even people who didn't listen to WLFM regularly were always there for the trivia."

He added that the contest has received national recognition in the past, including a report on "Good Morning America" and an article in Playboy magazine.

The 50 hours will begin at 10 p.m. on Friday, Jan. 27 and conclude at midnight on Sunday Jan. 29

RLA Appreciation Day! November 12

They arrived a week early for an intense training program.

Brokaw Hall

Kacy Kleinhans

Laura Wake

Colman Hall

Decky Alexander

Carlissa Balgemann

Jeff Bross

Martin Buerger

Derrick De Yarman

Susan Duncan

Melinda Gossweiler

Kathie Lundgren

Clint Schneider

Kohler Hall

Martin Arlt

Suzanne Barrow

Barbara Coe

Thad Florence

Brian Huglen

Chris Hundhausen

Christine Mitchell

Gabriela Mondino

Ryan Tarpley

Stacy Woldt

Ormsby Hall

Tanya Davidson

Jon Fosdick

Leslie Hanson

Paul Helmken

Rose Kelly

Thomas Nowak

Alice Peacock

Mary Roetz

Plants Hall

Kristynn Fields

Miriam Guthrie

Joe Krueger

Sarah Marshall

Peter Murchie

Erik Swan

David Tomfohrle

Kris Warzyniak

Sage Hall

Jennifer Aspen

Kim Frederick

Bart Isaacson

Patrick Schubert

Trevel Hall

Neal Freese

Trevor Hyde

Jon Maki

Michelle Mueller

Michael Rozovics

Troy Thornberry

Meghan Walsh

Sherrill Weller

Quad #6

Theresa Lowe

Addressers wanted immediately! No experience necessary. Excellent pay. Work at home. Call toll free: 1-800-395-3283

This Week's Solution

Three new ways to survive college.

The Macintosh Classic

The Macintosh LC

The Macintosh IIfx

With Apple's introduction of three new Macintosh® computers, meeting the challenges of college life just got a whole lot easier. Because now, everybody can afford a Macintosh.

The Macintosh Classic is our most affordable model, yet it comes with everything you need—including a hard disk drive. The Macintosh LC combines color capabilities with affordability. And the Macintosh IIfx is perfect for students who need a computer with extra power and expandability.

No matter which Macintosh you choose, you'll have a computer that lightens your work load without giving you another tough subject to learn. Every Macintosh computer is easy to set up and even easier to master. And when you've learned one program, you're well on your way to learning them all. That's because thousands of available programs all work in the same, consistent manner. You can even share information with someone who uses a different type of computer—thanks to Apple's versatile SuperDrive™, which reads from and writes to Macintosh, MS-DOS, OS/2, and Apple® II floppy disks.

See the new Macintosh computers for yourself, and find out how surviving college just got a whole lot easier.

For further information visit
Youngchild 260
or call 832-6769 (mornings)

The power to be your best.™

Humor Columnist Dave Barry

Politicians should have terms ... but no parole

By Dave Barry

Recently, in a deviation from Standard Journalism Procedure, I've been talking with members of the public. We journalists generally avoid members of the public because they always tell us that we get everything wrong, although in fact what they're usually talking about is insignificant errors such as identifying James Baker as "the governor of Connecticut," when he is technically the mayor of Connecticut.

So usually we journalists prefer to obtain our information about the public by watching it walk past our cafeteria windows. "The public appears guardedly optimistic today," we'll say. Or: "Stop the presses! The public appears to be in a recession!"

But lately, because of car trouble, I have been in very close contact with the public, at least the part of it that operates tow trucks, and I've been able to "dig up" the following major "scoop":

THE PUBLIC IS FED UP WITH POLITICIANS.

Yes. If you don't believe me, just look around you (Not NOW, you moron! At the end of the sentence!) and you'll see subtle yet unmistakable signs of voter dissatisfaction:

— In survey after survey, the public ranks "politician," as a profession, between "arsonist" and "hookworm."

— Many politicians are unable to appear in daylight because the public throws rocks at them. They're forced to campaign in the dead of night, sneaking into voters' houses, creeping into the nurseries, hastily kissing babies and then sprinting off into the darkness, trailed by aides carrying camouflaged briefcases.

— Eighty-seven percent of the members of the U.S. Congress now wear special armored socks because they keep getting bitten BY THEIR OWN DOGS.

— In a dramatic example of the mounting

voter backlash against incumbents, the two-term governor of Oklahoma was recently defeated by a jar of totally inexperienced mayonnaise.

Yes, our election leaders are "feeling the heat," but is this really fair? Should the public tar all of the apples in the political barrel with the same broad brush just because a few rotten eggs are crying over spilt milk? Of course not. The truth is that there are a great many politicians who are honest, trustworthy, intelligent, hard-working, decent and competent. Unfortunately, they are all located on the planet Zoombah. The ones here on Earth are dumpsterheads.

Consider, for example, their recent concerted effort to reduce the pesky federal budget deficit, which, shockingly, continues to mount despite the fact that BOTH MAJOR POLITICAL PARTIES have issued sternly worded position papers against it. Day after day, week after week, the top brains of Congress and the Bush administration sat in a conference room, eating prune Danish supplied by the Prune Danish division of the Bureau of Pastries of the U.S. department of Refreshments at a cost of $2,350 per slice.

"What should we do about this pesky budget deficit?" the leaders asked, crumbs of concern dribbling from their mouths. "How can we reduce it? If only we had an idea! If only we could think of..."

"SPEND LESS MONEY, YOU CRETINS!!" shouted a group of cockroaches, who had been listening from the floor and managed to figure out the solution despite the handicap of not being top political brains. Unfortunately, however, our political leadership is not responsive to cockroaches, unless of course they operate savings-and-loan institutions.

So the government does not appear to be working, and the public is sick of politicians, with their bloated campaign budgets and their slick, phony TV commercials. But the tide is starting to turn. That is the beauty of democracy. More and more politicians, finally getting the message, are using their bloated campaign budgets to produce slick, phony TV commercials IN WHICH THEY DENY THAT THEY ARE POLITICIANS. You've probably seen these:

(The screen shows a candidate with his sleeves rolled up, pretending to talk with a group of factory workers.)

ANNOUNCER: Morton Lamprey is not a politician. Morton Lamprey has NO INTEREST in politics. That's why Morton Lamprey spent $287,000 to make this commercial.

CANDIDATE: I'm Morton Lamprey, and because I am not a politician I constantly hang out with ordinary workers, informally rolling up my sleeves and holding exactly the same opinions as they do about everything. Sometimes I even touch them. (He touches a worker.)

ANNOUNCER: Let's help Morton Lamprey continue the fight against insider "fat-cat" politics-as-usual that he's been waging for 17 consecutive terms in office.

(One of the workers throws a rock, which bounces harmlessly off the candidate's hair spray.)

CANDIDATE (to an aide): Have that worker shot.

ANNOUNCER: Morton Lamprey. He's just like you, assuming you have a media advisor. Morton Lamprey. Notice how sincerely I say his name. I also do the Infiniti (cq) commercials.

So we're definitely seeing some meaningful reform in the area of political advertising. Some radicals, however, feel we need to go still further, and actually improve the quality of GOVERNMENT, via simple, common-sense political reforms such as becoming a British colony again. Another increasingly popular idea is to give politicians terms of a specified length, which I think is an excellent idea. Twelve years sounds about right to me.

But no parole.

Election results distressing

By Dave Kueter

Okay, I'm depressed.

I didn't pay all that much attention to the gubernatorial and congressional races before election day itself. However, there were two specific s which I was very decided on: Big Green and Harvey Gantt. And they both lost. Now I know that everybody gets upset when their candidates or referendums lose, but this goes beyond that.

Jesse Helms has been an embarrassment to this country's legislative system since day one. CNN reported that when a group of people in San Diego heard of Helms' bid for re-election, they gathered $100,000 for the campaign of the challenger, Harvey Gantt. Basically, Jesse Helms is one of the greatest enemies of our First Amendment (thank the Lord Florida governor Bob Martinez was ousted). In addition, he ran the sleaziest campaign this side of Central America. Ads were run reporting that gays and lesbians were flocking to North Carolina to try to get Helms out of office. Postcards were sent to low-income neighborhoods telling those who might vote for Harvey Gantt not to show up to the polls and "misrepresent" themselves. In addition, voting machines were inoperative in many areas and others had only one machine. Something is rotten in the state of Denmark.

On the other hand, California's "Big Green" was possibly the most sweeping environmental proposal of its time. Addressing all kinds of problems from off-shore drilling to pesticide use to logging in ancient redwood forests. The mere existence of the bill was a sign that perhaps we were ready to begin the essential steps to preserve our environment and, through this our own future. However, Big Green's 65-35 defeat stomped those hopes. If we can't get a good environmental program going in California, what can we possibly hope for in more conservative areas?

Anybody know how one can apply for Canadian citizenship?

LIFE IN HELL

©1990 BY MATT GROENING

Irvin to present lecture/recital

Marjory Irvin, professor of music emerita and designer of the freshman and sophomore theory program, will present a lecture/recital to benefit the Pi Kappa Lambda scholarship fund at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 15 in Harper Hall.

In her first public performance since retiring from Lawrence in 1987, Irvin will play the works of French composer Lili

Boulanger accompanied by Nancy Stowe, assistant to the dean of the conservatory.

Irvin began her teaching career in 1948 at Milwaukee-Dowder College, which merged with Lawrence in 1964. She earned the bachelor's and master's degrees from Illinois Wesleyan University and continued her studies at the Juilliard School in Paris, the University of Indiana, University of Arizona, the American Conservatory and the Aspen School of Music.

A popular and respected teacher, Irvin was awarded the Lawrence University Award for Excellence in Teaching, the Babcock Award; for cooperation with student enterprises and the Mortar Board Award for Excellence in Teaching.

WPR...

Continued from pg. 1

The memo issued by Schnirring stated, "Classical music stations throughout the country have been forced to rethink their approach."

"I have believed that we would have better, more creative, and more interesting programming if each program host selected his/her music and could speak about it from knowledge."

"The alternative that our new Associate Director, Greg Schnirring, and I prefer to keep is the present system, but to develop clearer policies on what is expected."

In an interview with Jack Mitchell, programming director at WPR, he said that there has not been an overwhelming amount of response to the policy draft, but a fair amount.

"Not as much as we would have gotten had we actually begun to implement the policies. There was more response from professional musicians than from other people."

Mitchell said the reaction has been, "All negative. After all, who would react positively with the way it was worded?"

Mike Engelson, president of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, said the memo was "Just as bogus as the proposition, so how out of context could

they have been?"

Julia Hillbrick, president of Sigma Alpha Iota, the women's professional music fraternity, said that WPR has dug itself a hole with this new proposition and this memo was an attempt to get out of the hole.

~Recitals~

~HANDEL'S MESSIAH~

Sunday, Dec. 2 7:30 p.m. Chapel *

~American Music Recital~

Saturday, Dec. 1 8:00 p.m. Harper Hall

~Guest Recitals~

~Andrew Rangell, piano

Wednesday, Nov. 14 8:30 p.m. Harper Hall

~Marjory Irvin and Nancy Stowe *

Lecture and recital on the songs of Nadia Boulanger

Thursday, Nov. 15 8:30 p.m. Harper Hall

~Faculty Recitals~

~Below and Murray, piano

Sunday, Nov. 11 8:00 p.m. Harper Hall

~Brass Quintet

Friday, Nov. 16 8:00 p.m. Harper Hall

~Student Recital~

~Chris Weigel, clarinet; Margaret Jenks, voice

Monday, Nov. 19 8:30 p.m. Harper Hall

~Joyanne Kohler, flute

Monday, Nov. 26 8:30 p.m. Harper Hall

* admission charged

JAZZWEEKEND

Friday Nov. 9

Goldson and Shaw 7:30 p.m. Chapel

Saturday Nov. 10

Chamber Jazz Recital 11:15 a.m. Harper Hall

Jazz Lab Band with guest Janet Planet

1:30 p.m. Riverview

John Harman piano concert

1:30 p.m. Harper Hall

Jazz Singers, LUZZ with guest soloists

3:00 p.m. Riverview

Criskine, Johnson, Abercrombie 7:30 p.m. Chapel

The Crossword

Last week's solution

DEPRESSION

By Dorothy B. Martin

ACROSS

- 1 Thin plate
- 5 Spheres of influence
- 9 Sound: pref.
- 13 "A House is Not..."
- 18 Director Kazan
- 19 Exploit
- 20 Bangor's state
- 21 Pigmentation
- 22 Bell-shaped flower
- 25 Greeting
- 26 Subsequently
- 27 Pianos
- 28 Awards
- 29 Talk too much
- 32 RBI and ERA
- 33 Rubicund
- 34 Foster song

- 39 Deputy: abbr.
- 40 Scratch
- 41 Mornings: abbr.
- 44 Ichabod Crane's tale
- 48 Walter — Mare
- 49 Shillelagh
- 50 Away: abbr.
- 51 Goat antelope
- 53 Chutney and turmeric
- 56 Boat race
- 60 Scram!
- 61 City on the Oka
- 63 Hawkeye state
- 64 Social gathering
- 66 Schuss
- 67 1941 Academy Award film
- 73 Legendary bird

- 74 "Rabbi — Ezra"
- 75 Art deco (illustrator)
- 76 Operatic highlight
- 77 Mike men
- 80 Avenues
- 83 Figure of speech
- 87 Sao —
- 88 Abundance
- 89 Edge
- 91 "Dins like —!"
- 92 US scenic wonder
- 99 Curve
- 100 Consume
- 101 Unclose to poets
- 102 Dug underground
- 103 Favorite

- 104 Horizontal mine entrances
- 106 "Love — many-splendored thing"
- 107 Lacking funds
- 111 "Mine eyes have — glory..."
- 113 Tend to the sick
- 118 Lend — (listen)
- 119 Rille
- 122 Platitudinous
- 123 Coquets
- 124 Lab burner
- 125 Chukker game
- 126 Pied —
- 127 Lumber
- 128 Fast planes
- 129 Duck

DOWN

- 1 TV actor Gabe
- 2 Pelvic bones
- 3 Delta deposit
- 4 Former comic actor Danny
- 5 Away
- 6 Soak flax
- 7 Scrooge words
- 8 Phases
- 9 Painter's board
- 10 Sword handles
- 11 Certain bills
- 12 Marshal under Napoleon
- 13 Yearned
- 14 Did gardening
- 15 Stewpot
- 16 Gangster's girl
- 17 Cupid
- 20 Control
- 23 Musical instrument
- 24 Necessary
- 28 Large grouper

- 30 Conjunction
- 31 Snooty one
- 33 Cheers
- 34 Name in cars
- 35 Trickle slowly
- 36 Citrus fruit
- 37 Manatee
- 38 Distant
- 40 "— just cares for me"
- 41 Like a bump on —
- 42 Downhearted
- 43 Pretentious
- 45 Mug
- 46 Stroke
- 47 Garment size: abbr.
- 52 Garland
- 54 Unit of work
- 55 Some Europeans
- 57 Dance director
- 58 Cognizant

- 59 Palate
- 60 Tolerates
- 62 Majors
- 65 A Gabor
- 67 Special respect
- 68 Happens
- 69 Put on a throne
- 70 Paris subway
- 71 52
- 72 Childbirth technique
- 73 Dem.'s foe
- 78 High notes
- 79 Long, long time
- 81 Light brown
- 82 Strain
- 84 Pedestal figure
- 85 Solitary
- 86 Old oath
- 88 Go away!
- 90 Hawaiian isle
- 93 Like a gorge
- 94 Sang in a way
- 95 Thinks

- 96 Like mesh
- 97 TLC dispensers: abbr.
- 98 Silly
- 103 Cleaner
- 104 A Harpy
- 105 Clogs
- 107 Fastener
- 108 Against
- 109 Gather in the crops
- 110 Roy Rogers' wife
- 111 Starch source
- 112 Salamanders
- 114 Refs' kin
- 115 Motel unit
- 116 Food fish
- 117 Plenty for poets
- 119 Promise
- 120 Explosive
- 121 Owns

Creative Hair Design

Student Discount
15% with Validine

Specializing in: Perms, Color, Ethnic
Black Hairstyling, Hair Extensions, Hair
Replacements, Nails, Skin Care

103 W. Washington
(Across from City Transit)
(414) 733-4616

Tuesday 8:30 - 5:00
Wednesday 8:30 - 8:00
Thursday 8:30 - 8:00
Friday 8:30 - 5:00

Just call now and make an appointment or walk-in !

Humor Columnist Dave Barry

Politicians should have terms ... but no parole

By Dave Barry

Recently, in a deviation from Standard Journalism Procedure, I've been talking with members of the public. We journalists generally avoid members of the public because they always tell us that we get everything wrong, although in fact what they're usually talking about is insignificant errors such as identifying James Baker as "the governor of Connecticut," when he is technically the mayor of Connecticut.

So usually we journalists prefer to obtain our information about the public by watching it walk past our cafeteria windows. "The public appears guardedly optimistic today," we'll say. Or: "Stop the presses! The public appears to be in a recession!"

But lately, because of car trouble, I have been in very close contact with the public, at least the part of it that operates tow trucks, and I've been able to "dig up" the following major "scoop":

THE PUBLIC IS FED UP WITH POLITICIANS.

Yes. If you don't believe me, just look around you (Not NOW, you moron! At the end of the sentence!) and you'll see subtle yet unmistakable signs of voter dissatisfaction:

— In survey after survey, the public ranks "politician," as a profession, between "arsonist" and "hookworm."

— Many politicians are unable to appear in daylight because the public throws rocks at them. They're forced to campaign in the dead of night, sneaking into voters' houses, creeping into the nurseries, hastily kissing babies and then sprinting off into the darkness, trailed by aides carrying camouflaged briefcases.

— Eighty-seven percent of the members of the U.S. Congress now wear special armored socks because they keep getting bitten BY THEIR OWN DOGS.

— In a dramatic example of the mounting

voter backlash against incumbents, the two-term governor of Oklahoma was recently defeated by a jar of totally inexperienced mayonnaise.

Yes, our election leaders are "feeling the heat," but is this really fair? Should the public tar all of the apples in the political barrel with the same broad brush just because a few rotten eggs are crying over spilt milk? Of course not. The truth is that there are a great many politicians who are honest, trustworthy, intelligent, hard-working, decent and competent. Unfortunately, they are all located on the planet Zoombah. The ones here on Earth are dumpsterheads.

Consider, for example, their recent concerted effort to reduce the pesky federal budget deficit, which, shockingly, continues to mount despite the fact that BOTH MAJOR POLITICAL PARTIES have issued sternly worded position papers against it. Day after day, week after week, the top brains of Congress and the Bush administration sat in a conference room, eating prune Danish supplied by the Prune Danish division of the Bureau of Pastries of the U.S. department of Refreshments at a cost of $2,350 per slice.

"What should we do about this pesky budget deficit?" the leaders asked, crumbs of concern dribbling from their mouths. "How can we reduce it? If only we had an idea! If only we could think of ..."

"SPEND LESS MONEY, YOU CRETINS!!" shouted a group of cockroaches, who had been listening from the floor and managed to figure out the solution despite the handicap of not being top political brains. Unfortunately, however, our political leadership is not responsive to cockroaches, unless of course they operate savings -and -loan institutions.

So the government does not appear to be working, and the public is sick of politicians, with their bloated campaign budgets and their slick, phony TV commercials. But the tide is starting to turn. That is the beauty of democracy. More and more politicians, finally getting the message, are using their bloated campaign budgets to produce slick, phony TV commercials IN WHICH THEY DENY THAT THEY ARE POLITICIANS. You've probably seen these:

(The screen shows a candidate with his sleeves rolled up, pretending to talk with a group of factory workers.)

ANNOUNCER: Morton Lamprey is not a politician. Morton Lamprey has NO INTEREST in politics. That's why Morton Lamprey spent $287,000 to make this commercial.

CANDIDATE: I'm Morton Lamprey, and because I am not a politician I constantly hang out with ordinary workers, informally rolling up my sleeves and holding exactly the same opinions as they do about everything. Sometimes I even touch them. (He touches a worker.)

ANNOUNCER: Let's help Morton Lamprey continue the fight against insider "fat-cat" politics-as-usual that he's been waging for 17 consecutive terms in office.

(One of the workers throws a rock, which bounces harmlessly off the candidate's hair spray.)

CANDIDATE (to an aide): Have that worker shot.

ANNOUNCER: Morton Lamprey. He's just like you, assuming you have a media advisor. Morton Lamprey. Notice how sincerely I say his name. I also do the Infiniti (cq) commercials.

So we're definitely seeing some meaningful reform in the area of political advertising. Some radicals, however, feel we need to go still further, and actually improve the quality of GOVERNMENT, via simple, common-sense political reforms such as becoming a British colony again. Another increasingly popular idea is to give politicians terms of a specified length, which I think is an excellent idea. Twelve years sounds about right to me.

But no parole.

Election results distressing

By Dave Kueter

Okay, I'm depressed.

I didn't pay all that much attention to the gubernatorial and congressional races before election day itself. However, there were two specific s which I was very decided on: Big Green and Harvey Gantt. And they both lost. Now I know that everybody gets upset when their candidates or referendums lose, but this goes beyond that.

Jesse Helms has been an embarrassment to this country's legislative system since day one. CNN reported that when a group of people in San Diego heard of Helms' bid for re-election, they gathered $100,000 for the campaign of the challenger, Harvey Gantt. Basically, Jesse Helms is one of the greatest enemies of our First Amendment (thank the Lord Florida governor Bob Martinez was ousted). In addition, he ran the sleaziest campaign this side of Central America. Ads were run reporting that gays and lesbians were flocking to North Carolina to try to get Helms out of office. Postcards were sent to low-income neighborhoods telling those who might vote for Harvey Gantt not to show up to the polls and "misrepresent" themselves. In addition, voting machines were inoperative in many areas and others had only one machine. Something is rotten in the state of Denmark.

On the other hand, California's "Big Green" was possibly the most sweeping environmental proposal of its time. Addressing all kinds of problems from off-shore drilling to pesticide use to logging in ancient redwood forests. The mere existence of the bill was a sign that perhaps we were ready to begin the essential steps to preserve our environment and, through this our own future. However, Big Green's 65-35 defeat stomped those hopes. If we can't get a good environmental program going in California, what can we possibly hope for in more conservative areas?

Anybody know how one can apply for Canadian citizenship?

LIFE IN HELL

©1990
BY MATT
GROENING

Irvin to present lecture/recital

Marjory Irvin, professor of music emerita and designer of the freshman and sophomore theory program, will present a lecture/recital to benefit the Pi Kappa Lambda scholarship fund at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 15 in Harper Hall.

In her first public performance since retiring from Lawrence in 1987, Irvin will play the works of French composer Lili

Boulanger accompanied by Nancy Stowe, assistant to the dean of the conservatory.

Irvin began her teaching career in 1948 at Milwaukee-Dowd College, which merged with Lawrence in 1964. She earned the bachelor's and master's degrees from Illinois Wesleyan University and continued her studies at the Juilliard School in Paris, the University of Indiana, University of Arizona, the American Conservatory and the Aspen School of Music.

A popular and respected teacher, Irvin was awarded the Lawrence University Award for Excellence in Teaching, the Babcock Award; for cooperation with student enterprises and the Mortar Board Award for Excellence in Teaching.

WPR...

Continued from pg. 1

The memo issued by Schnirring stated, "Classical music stations throughout the country have been forced to rethink their approach."

"I have believed that we would have better, more creative, and more interesting programming if each program host selected his/her music and could speak about it from knowledge."

"The alternative that our new Associate Director, Greg Schnirring, and I prefer to keep is the present system, but to develop clearer policies on what is expected."

In an interview with Jack Mitchell, programming director at WPR, he said that there has not been an overwhelming amount of response to the policy draft, but a fair amount.

"Not as much as we would have gotten had we actually begun to implement the policies. There was more response from professional musicians than from other people."

Mitchell said the reaction has been, "All negative. After all, who would react positively with the way it was worded?"

Mike Engelson, president of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, said the memo was "Just as bogus as the proposition, so how out of context could

they have been?"

Julia Hillbrick, president of Sigma Alpha Iota, the women's professional music fraternity, said that WPR has dug itself a hole with this new proposition and this memo was an attempt to get out of the hole.

~Recitals~

~HANDEL'S MESSIAH~

Sunday, Dec. 2 7:30 p.m. Chapel *

~American Music Recital~

Saturday, Dec. 1 8:00 p.m. Harper Hall

~Guest Recitals~

~Andrew Rangell, piano

Wednesday, Nov. 14 8:30 p.m. Harper Hall

~Marjory Irvin and Nancy Stowe *

Lecture and recital on the songs of Nadia Boulanger

Thursday, Nov. 15 8:30 p.m. Harper Hall

~Faculty Recitals~

~Below and Murray, piano

Sunday, Nov. 11 8:00 p.m. Harper Hall

~Brass Quintet

Friday, Nov. 16 8:00 p.m. Harper Hall

~Student Recital~

~Chris Weigel, clarinet; Margaret Jenks, voice

Monday, Nov. 19 8:30 p.m. Harper Hall

~Joyanne Kohler, flute

Monday, Nov. 26 8:30 p.m. Harper Hall

* admission charged

JAZZWEEKEND

Friday Nov. 9

Colson and Shaw 7:30 p.m. Chapel

Saturday Nov. 10

Chamber Jazz Recital 11:15 a.m. Harper Hall

Jazz Lab Band with guest Janet Planet

1:30 p.m. Riverview

John Harmon piano concert

1:30 p.m. Harper Hall

Jazz Singers, LUCC with guest soloists

3:00 p.m. Riverview

Criskine, Johnson, Abercrombie 7:30 p.m. Chapel

The Crossword

Last week's solution

DEPRESSION

By Dorothy B. Martin

ACROSS

- 1 Thin plate
- 5 Spheres of influence
- 9 Sound; pref.
- 13 "A House is Not..."
- 18 Director Kazan
- 19 Exploit
- 20 Bangor's state
- 21 Pigmentation
- 22 Bell-shaped flower
- 25 Greeting
- 26 Subsequently
- 27 Pianos
- 28 Awards
- 29 Talk too much
- 32 RBI and ERA
- 33 Rubicund
- 34 Foster song
- 39 Deputy; abbr.
- 40 Scratch
- 41 Mornings; abbr.
- 44 Ichabod Crane's tale
- 46 Walter — Mare
- 49 Shillelagh
- 50 Away; abbr.
- 51 Goat antelope
- 53 Chutney and turmeric
- 56 Boat race
- 60 Scram!
- 61 City on the Oka
- 63 Hawkeye state
- 64 Social gathering
- 66 Schuss
- 67 1941 Academy Award film
- 73 Legendary bird
- 74 "Rabbi — Ezra"
- 75 Art deco
- 76 Operatic highlight
- 77 Mike men
- 80 Avenues
- 83 Figure of speech
- 87 Sao —
- 88 Abundance
- 89 Edge
- 91 "Dies like — I"
- 92 US scenic wonder
- 99 Curve
- 100 Consume
- 101 Unclose to poets
- 102 Dug underground
- 103 Favorite
- 104 Horizontal mine entrances
- 106 "Love — many-splendored thing"
- 107 Lacking funds
- 111 "Mine eyes have — glory"
- 113 Tend to the sick
- 118 Lend — (listen)
- 119 Rille
- 122 Plitudinous
- 123 Coquets
- 124 Lab burner
- 125 Chukker game
- 126 Pied —
- 127 Lumber
- 128 Fast planes
- 129 Duck

DOWN

- 1 TV actor Gabe
- 2 Pelvic bones
- 3 Delta deposit
- 4 Former comic actor Danny
- 5 Away
- 6 Soak flax
- 7 Scrooge words
- 8 Phases
- 9 Painter's board
- 10 Sword handles
- 11 Certain bills
- 12 Marshal under Napoleon
- 13 Yearned
- 14 Did gardening
- 15 Stewpot
- 16 Gangster's girl
- 17 Cupid
- 20 Control
- 23 Musical instrument
- 24 Necessary
- 28 Large grouper
- 30 Conjunction
- 31 Snooty one
- 33 Cheers
- 34 Name in cars
- 35 Trickle slowly
- 36 Citrus fruit
- 37 Manatee
- 38 Distant
- 40 "— just cares for me"
- 41 Like a bump on —
- 42 Downhearted
- 43 Pretentious
- 45 Mug
- 46 Stroke
- 47 Garment size; abbr.
- 52 Garland
- 54 Unit of work
- 55 Some Europeans
- 57 Dance director — Champion
- 58 Cognizant
- 59 Palate
- 60 Tolerates
- 62 Majors
- 65 A Gabor
- 67 Special respect
- 68 Happens
- 69 Put on a throne
- 70 Paris subway
- 71 52
- 72 Childbirth technique
- 73 Dem.'s foe
- 78 High notes
- 79 Long, long time
- 81 Light brown
- 82 Strain
- 84 Pedestal figure
- 85 Solitary
- 86 Old oath
- 88 Go away!
- 90 Hawaiian isle
- 93 Like a gorge
- 94 Sang in a way
- 95 Thinks
- 96 Like mesh
- 97 TLC dispensers; abbr.
- 98 Silly
- 103 Cleaner
- 104 A Harpy
- 105 Clogs
- 107 Fastener
- 108 Against
- 109 Gather in the crops
- 110 Roy Rogers' wife
- 111 Starch source
- 112 Salamanders
- 114 Refs' kin
- 115 Motel unit
- 116 Food fish
- 117 Plenty for poets
- 119 Promise
- 120 Explosive
- 121 Owns

Creative Hair Design

Student Discount
15% with Validine

Specializing in: Perms, Color, Ethnic
Black Hairstyling, Hair Extensions, Hair
Replacements, Nails, Skin Care

103 W. Washington
(Across from City Transit)
(414) 733-4616

Tuesday 8:30 - 5:00
Wednesday 8:30 - 8:00
Thursday 8:30 - 8:00
Friday 8:30 - 5:00

Just call now and make an appointment or walk-in !

Women's cross country team takes Midwest Conference accolades

By Fred Andersen

The LU women's cross country team placed four runners on the all-conference team as they cruised to the Midwest Conference championship last Saturday at Ripon.

Robin Dvorak, Beth

Switzer, Julie Secor, and Heather Hill each finished in the top ten, while senior Jen Aspen, for the second year in a row, finished one second away from being all-conference.

The conference champs will travel to Rock Island, Illinois this weekend to compete in the NCAA Division III regional meet.

The Viking men, last weekend, finished third in their conference race, with Chris Naumann and Tom Cook being selected as all-conference.

Juniors Dan Sheridan, Brady Nichols, and Sean Henne all finished in the top 30 in Saturday's race, placing LU behind only Grinnell and Monmouth in the 10 team field.

Viking football team may have found 'turning point'

By Fred Andersen

This year's Viking football team featured a unique blend of accomplished upper-classmen and talented freshmen that could prove to be the turning point for LU's once struggling football program. The team finished their 1990 season last Saturday with a 14-6 loss to Ripon on a wet, sloppy Banta Bowl field.

Joe Krueger scored for the Vikes in his last collegiate game on a 20 yard pass reception from Russ Scott.

LU's defense held the Redmen's explosive offense to only 219 yards, but it was not enough. Ripon took second place in the conference while the Vikings dropped to 4th in the 5 team Northern Division.

Leading this year's LU team offensively were Russ Scott, with 1,399 passing yards, Robbie Elsing, with 256 rushing yards, and Ed

Lamm with 38 receptions for 456 yards.

Defensively, Damian LaCroix led with 119 tackles in 9 games. Clint Weninger had a team-high 6 interceptions for LU, who finished the year with a 4-5 mark, including a 2-4 record in the Midwest Conference.

Volleyball squad takes fifth

The LU volleyball team came into last weekend's conference tournament at St. Norbert with a 3-21 record and unsuspecting opponents.

Their 5th place finish could therefore be considered a success, as the hard-working Viking team won their first two matches, against Grinnell and Coe, before eventually losing to championship bracket foes Cornell and Beloit.

Men's, Women's hoops previewed

Seventeen players will compete for limited playing time on this year's men's basketball team, which should provide LU with unparalleled depth and also an opportunity to finish first in the Midwest Conference.

All-everything point guard Matt Miota will lead a talented bunch of experienced players, which includes 2nd team all-conference selection Joel Dillingham, into battle starting November 20, when LU will take on non-conference opponent Wisconsin Lutheran.

Guards Miota and Ross Rynders, forwards Dillingham and Leo Linnenmanstons, and center Clint Schneider expect to start for the Vikes, with many others seeing playing time throughout the year.

The Midwest Conference

season will begin for LU on January 8 with a game against rival St. Norbert.

The Viking women's basketball team starts its non-conference season next weekend in Minnesota, with games Friday against Augsburg and Saturday against Macalaster.

The 1990 Midwest Conference champs return nine letter-winners, who with one more year of college basketball experience, should again challenge for the conference title.

Expected starters are sophomores Susan Steele and Krista Tomter at guards, sophomore Vickie Leathers and junior Sarah O'Neill at forwards, and sophomore Katherine Lofgren at center.

Defense of the MC title begins January 4th with a home game against Coe.

Then get in on the ground floor in our undergraduate officer commissioning program. You could start planning on a career like the men in this ad have. And also have some great advantages like:

- Earning $100 a month during the school year
- As a freshman or sophomore, you could complete your basic training during two six-week summer sessions and earn more than $1,400 during each session

- Juniors earn more than $2,400 during one ten-week summer session
- You can take free civilian flying lessons
- You're commissioned upon graduation

If you're looking to move up quickly, look into the Marine Corps undergraduate officer commissioning program. You could start off making more than $20,000 a year.  We're looking for a few good men.

Want to move up quickly?

Marines

For more information on Marine Corps Officer Programs see the Marines in the cafeteria 29 Nov or call 1-800-852-3680.